

MONTE CASSINO 1944

Polish 2nd Army Corp led by general Anders attacked Monte Cassino at 12th May 1:00am. Polish infantry advanced through rocky slope after artillery bombardment performed by 1060 guns and howitzers. However, an hour long bombardment didn't worked as planned. German trenches put heavy resistance and their hidden artillery and mortars began attack. Nevertheless, Polish troops advanced meter by meter. Soon, assault without support of artillery and heavy losses lost it's impact and troops held their positions amongst rocks.

Phase of mock attacks held Germans unsure where main Polish forces will attack. At 16th May the second assault took place and main German defense position was taken. Their mortar stations were endangered and Poles gained great observation point. 17th May Germantt counterattacked, but was stopped by Polish riflemen. At the same time British 8th Corp entered Liri valley and began flanking Monte Cassino from west. Germans began to withdraw suffering heavy losses.

SALERNO 1943

Assault on Salerno wasn't a surprise. While first British and American troops landed on the beach Germans were already preparing a counteroffensive.

First battles were fought between companies and battalions. Both sides were improvising and calling for support. For Allies who faced little resistance at Sicily that was unpleasant surprise.

Each day Germans counterattacked from different parts of mountains and with support of artillery and tanks. Their fast detection was impossible due to depth of valleys.

However relentless assaults and support of advancing from south Calabrian forces forced German HQ's to withdrawal. Fast pursuit through mountain passes and peaks was necessary.

Very important part of Salerno battle played fleet. Naval guns was able to stop several German counterattacks. Less precise aviation didn't have that big impact. Scenario may seem very static however tactics and level of risk is determined by players.

ANCONA 1944

On the night of 16th to 17th July Polish troops prepared to assault. Four infantry battalions and four armored regiments (240 tanks) spread on 5 kilometer line supported by 300 guns. Against Poles were defending three infantry battalions supported by strong artillery.

At 6:25 am artillery preparation and air assault begun followed by the offensive of 5th KDP. Germans used every convenient location for defense. At 7:00 am tanks moved through Mulone and advanced. About an hour and half later after heavy fights Paterniano was conquered. At 10:30 Tanks secured village of M. Torto. In the same time commando company supported by squadron of 1st lancers regiment tanks occupied Casa Nuova.

In the afternoon British 7th hussar regiment secured M. Bogo and 6th armored regiment occupied Croce di S. Vincenzo, where was joined by 15th lancer regiment. Slowly Italians began their maneuvers. After dark they manage to create outpost at northern shore of Mulone in the Castel Rustico region and protect wing of the corp. Hesitant actions of Italians make Polish commanders uncertain about protection of left wing and stopped pursuit of 2nd armored brigade at Agugliano. 17th July 3rd DSK made only small reconnaissance actions.

At the end of the day S. Stefano, Monte Della Crescia and Monte Bogo were occupied. Heavy fight took place in Offagna region. Tank squadrons avoiding Polveridgi moved toward Agugla. This way corp units broke German defense and occupied key region of Monte Della Crescia. Around 20:00pm general Anders ordered pursuit. 6th and 2nd armored brigades were chosen to perform that task. They had to take road nr. 16 and reach region Torrette a Mare during the same night to cut off German forces withdrawing from Ancona. Rest of the units would pursue enemy starting from the 18th July morning.
